Summary: Mona St. James is a desperate woman- she's 25, the owner of a failing art gallery, and her mother had recently passed away from a long, and very expensive illness. On her deathbed, Mona's mother made Mona promise one thing- keep the Red open at any cost. No matter what. But the problem is, The Red is in the Red. One evening, Mona finds a very handsome stranger in her gallery. He's dark and handsome and only gives her his first name- Malcolm. He stares at a painting and tells her that it's worth more than she thinks- underneath is a painting worth more money. The stranger leaves and tells her to investigate this painting. He would be back in one week.

True to his word, the painting underneath is a lost work of art and Mona finds herself the talk of the art world. One week later, Malcolm returns with a proposition. For one year once a month, he wants carte blanche over her and in payment, he will give her artworks that will take the gallery out of debt.

I wasn't sure what the difference was between erotica and romance, but I found it between the pages of this book.....

10 ways to differentiate Romance from Erotica

10. If 50% of the novel is taken up by sex scenes
9. If sex usually starts within the first 10 pages
8. More of a physical rather than emotional relationship
7. Whips, chains, S&M
6. Isolation from friends, family, etc.
5. Sexual breaking point
4. Vulgarities or very explicit content such as cunt, semen
3. Multiple sex partners. So, DP, orgies, etc.
2. All three holes.... Yup I said it.
1. If you think of Madonna in any capacity during your reading

This book is going to be full of spoilers because there is a plot twist in the end and I FUCKING NEED TO TELL IT. If you need to pause this podcast now, and read Red, do it. But come back

Because this book is all about art, its chapters are actually titles of works of art. For example, we have Olympia by Manet, Dora and the Minotaur by Picasso etc.

This book is a visual and sexual journey

Mona: 25, average height, candy apple red hair. Owner of a gallery

Malcolm: ~40, English, black and tousled hair that reminded Mona of Eugene Delacroix's self-portrait. Dark eyes and a black heart. Impressive size and even more impressive girth. Has thick semen. To Mona, his semen tasted salty as the ocean, but it refreshed her like water from a fountain.

His ideology: "I have trouble respecting a woman who gives away for free what she could sell for good money. Whores are the only women who know their own worth".

Malcolm comes with the proposition. She's not sure, she would rather someone like her brain. He says

"The brain is an organ of the body. Whether I use you for your mind or use you for your cunt, I'm still using you for an organ of your body"

He will save the Red and give her a million dollars, "he is paying not to fuck her, but fuck with her". He will fuck her in her gallery on the brass bed she has in the back room of the gallery.

"Art should be dangerous, you know. It should say something to society that society doesn't want to hear. Do you know what the opposite of art is? Propaganda. There's too much of that in the world. Not enough art. And certainly not enough of this..."

This work is HOT HOT HOT. It receives our Platinum Rip
